

SUPER ZA
vs
NIGHTMARE

and  the

LOST AMULET

An original of Mr. Mason's 4th grade class at Washington Writers' Academy in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2018

Published April 18th, 2018

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leaders: Shelby Neislar, Lindsey Mercer, & Gina Dressander
Illustrator: Emily Kastner
Typist: Victoria Marcetti
Support: Jodi Mitchell, John Ephland, Ann Cultice, Jason Conde, Jonathan Bush

in partnership with

Western Michigan University

Super Za vs. Nightmare and the Lost Amulet

There was once a magnificent volcano on a black-sand island, surrounded by shiny seashells and stones. The volcano was still active and when the lava flowed and reached water it would explode into fireworks. The sky was filled with cotton candy cloud airplanes that changed colors according to people's moods. In the day time the air smelled like breakfast and at night it smelled like the most delicious desserts.

The island had a root beer river, a strawberry milk lake, a swedish fish lake, a cotton candy waterfall, a gummy liquid valley, and a beautiful caramel water park.

There were a lot of dangerous plants on the island including roses that could change into snakes, fire-breathing flowers, and electric eel grass that hated perfume. Thankfully, there were also vines to help you swing over the dangerous plants and quicksand, and there were 50-foot broccoli-topped trees that used their long arm-like branches to protect the kingdom.

The water around the island was home to pink dolphins, colorful fish, and dog-fish. On the ground there were superhero bears, tigerdogs, unicorns, and a Pegasus. In the sky there were flying cats and rainbow seagulls.

To get around the island there were hover cars powered by cherry water, unicorn trucks with wings, pig limos, and for kids there were gummy bikes with cookie wheels.

A beach house with a lava moat was home to Super Za, a highly adaptable creature who could change their size and gender at will. They had a pink afro, color-changing shoes, eyes that changed from blue to red, and a spy glass. They were fast and super-strong and used these powers to protect the kingdom and it's people.

Mike the Greatest Ape was Super Za's sidekick. He was a 9-foot 8-inch ape with an alligator tail, could shapeshift, and his eyes turned red when he was mad. He lived in an underwater jungle and only came out to eat sweet piranhas. He could jump as high as he wanted and could crack the ground when he landed. When he was little he was betrayed by his father who left to steal the Goodness Crystal. Since then, he was committed to helping Super

Za protect the kingdom.

Directly opposing Super Za and Mike was Nightmare, a blue and black-maned lion with buff robot arms and a very deep voice. It could shape shift, was water and fire proof, had a sharp diamond grill, could turn invisible, teleport, and time travel. It also had x-ray vision and cried acid. It lived in a secret lair in the volcano and wanted to retrieve the Powerful Amulet that Super Za had taken from it.

Lightning and Thunder were two-headed twins who had a dragon body, monkey heads, and bone wings. They had red and black hair topped off with crowns. They lived in the royal castle, guarded by the broccoli-topped trees. Nightmare was their father and so they obeyed him no matter what.

One day when the volcano was active, Super Za and Mike the Greatest Ape went out for a walk to admire the lava fireworks that were going off at the coast. Little did they know, Nightmare had left his lair in the volcano and had rallied Lightning and Thunder to try to get the Powerful Amulet back. Before Super Za and Mike knew it, Nightmare, Lightning, and Thunder were right behind them and Nightmare yelled out, "That Amulet should be MINE!" Just then...

Handwriting practice lines on the left page, consisting of 15 horizontal dashed lines.

Handwriting practice lines on the right page, consisting of 8 horizontal dashed lines.