

SUPER SIBLINGS

AND THE

FLOATING

RAINFOREST

An original of
Ms. Buckley's 3rd grade class at Lincoln International Studies School in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2018

Published April 19th, 2018

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:

Leader: Jason Conde

Illustrator: Emily Kastner

Typist: Victoria Marcetti

Support: Audrey Negro

Super Siblings and the Floating Rainforest

There was once a world unlike any other, the ground was made of pizza and in some areas there was chocolate dirt growing a combination of tall slime grass and bubble gum grass. The only way to tell the difference was to eat some and hope you got the bubble gum. There was an icy-slime mountain range and just beyond that was a rainforest that floated on the water (it was kind of like an island but it could move around). There were taffy vines you could swing on and they would make you laugh. There were two suns, one pink and one purple, and the gummy clouds rained candy and fancy sneakers. If you wanted it to rain you just had to shake a tree. JJ the Moon came out at night and was generally pretty emotionless. The sky was also home to squawking dinosaur hawks and roaring airplanes.

Hidden among the grasses were vicious blue dog roses with short jagged teeth. They growled when it rained, ate mosquitoes, and would bite if they heard the name Ronald Frump (or anything that sounded like it).

The floating rainforest was home to a family of Raptaurus. There was one adult and two babies who were green and black and had tails like lions and rows of big sharp teeth. They could turn invisible but their big feet would leave behind slimy sticky footprints.

Everyone in this world had their own private jet that they parked in caves. For shorter trips there were shape-shifting robot cars that shrank when they were parked so you could put them in your pocket. To drive them you just had to tap them 3 times and think of what kind of vehicle you needed. All of the cars and jets were fueled by melted chocolate dirt. There were also chocolate flying carpets that were best to use in cool temperatures.

The lakes were all a beautiful rainbow liquid that you could breathe in. One of the lakes was a portal to the North Pole on Earth and there was another lake that whispered scary dreams. The volcanoes erupted with cookies and takis and there were cola waterfalls. Everyone drank red and blue melted gummy soda and some people had swimming pools of melted chocolate.

Jimmy the Friendly Monster called this planet home. He was a robot with blue and red feet, 4 arms with purple hands, and could size shift. His face was half human and half robot and he had gold teeth. He had a big blue house at the bottom on the breathable rainbow lake. He was a very accurate at throwing things, he could make a basket from a mile away! He was the keeper of a special key that could open every door on the planet. It was important for Jimmy to help make sure everyone on the planet had a good life.

Jimmy had help from his sister Layla Babybrain. Since birth she had looked up to Jimmy and wanted to be a hero like him. Layla had long hair and big eyes like a babydoll but had camouflage skin that she could change at will. She lived in a beautiful doll house-style treehouse in the floating rainforest. Her mind control powers and ninja and parkour skills were very helpful in helping Jimmy.

Directly opposing Jimmy and Layla was Doughnut David. He had two heads, one a peanut and one an apple, a banana body, and french fry fingers. David lived in a cave in the icy-slime mountains with a nameless imaginary friend. He could make fire with his hands and turn invisible, but not both at the same time. David wore clothes that were too small for him and people made fun of him for it. It hurt him so much that he wanted to seek revenge.

Lil Shiny was a 12 inch 80-year-old with a short grey beard who lived in a hole in one of the taki volcanoes. He had stolen gold armor that could camouflage him. He was small and sneaky and a kung fu expert and would lend his skills to Doughnut David because David had promised him a mansion in the floating rainforest in exchange.

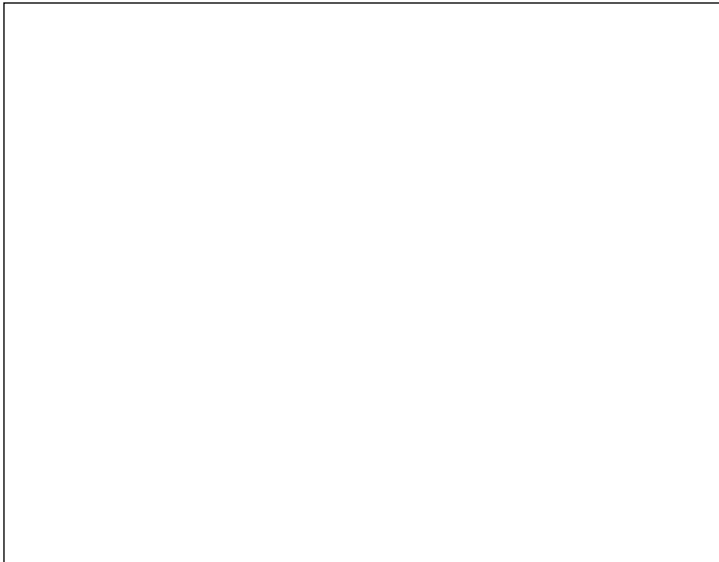

One day Jimmy and Layla were out for a walk admiring the scenery and sipping on melted gummy sodas. Little did they know, Doughnut David and Lil Shiny were also out for a walk but they had evil deeds on their mind. As they sneaked up on Jimmy and Layla, David yelled, "My clothes fit how they fit, get over it!"

Just then...

NORTH POLE
PORTAL

Handwriting practice lines on the left page, consisting of 14 horizontal dashed lines.

Handwriting practice lines on the right page, consisting of 8 horizontal dashed lines.