

THE Amazing
OCTOBOTS

An original of
Ms. Williamson's 5th grade class at Spring Valley Center for Exploration in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2018

Published May 30th, 2018

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leader: Jason Conde
Illustrator: Emily Kastner
Typist: Victoria Marcetti
Support: Julie Wheat, Emily Kastner

*"Even the silence
has a story to tell you.
Just listen. Listen"*

-Jacqueline Woodson

The Amazing Octobots

There was once a vast land covered by a smooth cherry fog. The sweet reddish-pink clouds rolled over a rainbow striped desert, a beautiful sea, and a warm jungle. The Patterned Desert was dotted with coconut trees and the jungle grew trees that sprouted green, yellow, red, and brown leaves. There was a dark blue sky filled with faces, cotton candy clouds, bacon stars, balloons popping, and lightning bolts. A lovely chocolate peppermint wind would blow through to break up the warm, moist air.

In the jungle there were Dinner Plants, but you had to be careful when foraging for food because of the super sharp Knife Plants. In various places you could find Candy Plants growing from the sky, the candy would fall down to be eaten once it was ripe. There was also a beautiful Money Tree that people often planted in their backyards.

The world was home to a variety of animals as well. There were chocolate deer (that pooped chocolate) and vanilla squirrels. There was a lion with a licorice mane that lived in the Purple Pond along with lots of weird fish. There were birds that could eat wind, and stone dogs that lived in mountains that encircled the world. There was also one giant Zombie Bear that was bigger than 5 airplanes.

To get around there were Octobots which were super strong pods with eight legs of different lengths and two giant wings. The passengers seated inside the pod used GPS to direct them. The Octobots would run on land before flying at jet speed and the wings could turn to oars to allow for travel across water.

When the cotton candy clouds became too heavy they let loose acid rain on the world. There were special umbrellas to protect the world and they were equipped with cups that filtered the rain and made it safe to drink. Once filtered, the rain tasted like root beer floats topped with a lemon slice.

This very special world was home to Super Llama King, or SLK for short. He had a long green goatee and rainbow fur that allowed him to camouflage himself in the rainbow Patterned Desert where he lived. He would eat the coconuts whole and wash them down with acid rain. His crown allowed him to teleport and his gold chain allowed him to understand all living things. People bullied him when he was young so he feels very bad when people get hurt. SLK was the nicest llama in the world EVER!

SLK was backed up by a Hero Squad made up of people he had saved when each of their planets had been destroyed. The team was made up of: A wildcat who could shoot lasers, a friendly alien with echo location and x-ray vision, a giant shape-shifter, a gummy mud girl who could make mud whirlpools, a tough baby unicorn who would throw up sticky green glue, and a black dragon that breathed liquid silver.

Master Root also called this place home. He lived in the jungle and had lots of muscles, legs made of roots, a rock face with a leaf mohawk, a tree torso, and branch arms that could shoot vines. He wanted to collect all the Octobots and destroy them to protect the trees and the vanilla squirrels.

Master Root's little brother Black Tarantula lived nearby in the jungle in an invisible mansion under a tree. He had 10 legs, wore a black suit, and black mask, and carried a purse that matched his green hair. He collected the poison acid rain and kept it in vials alongside the freeze ray he kept on his belt. He carried swords on his back, a donut boomerang, and had wings that allowed him to fly. He was immortal and was somehow a combination of a kid and an adult. He was willing to help his brother because Master Root made sure he got cool new stuff every time they won a battle.

One day Master Root and Black Tarantula were out in the jungle plotting another Octobot heist. Little did they know, SLK and the Hero Squad were hiding nearby in hopes of thwarting their plans.

Just as Master Root and Black Tarantula were getting ready to go they heard...

OCTOBOT

FOR ALL YOUR TRAVEL
NEEDS

