

The VAST WORLD

of Valleys

An original of Ms. Fluellen's 4th Grade class at Northeastern Elementary School in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2018

Published Wednesday, December 5th, 2018

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leader: Jason Conde
Typist: Victoria Marcetti
Illustrator: Shauna Waltmire
Support: Kylie Smith, Elaine Volpentesta,
Judy Fox, Shauna Waltmire, Sofia DeJong

This publication was supported by

The Kalamazoo Promise

The Vast World of Valleys

There was once a world of tall mountains and a trillion deep valleys that spanned a billion miles of cheddar bacon popcorn tiki sand. Living in the sand were red biting ants and glow-in-the-dark diamond ants. There were oceans and lagoons filled with fish and the beaches were dotted with beach houses that were each equipped with snow cone machines.

There were two very bright red orange and yellow suns that shown between rainbow animal and triangle-shaped clouds. These beautiful clouds let loose storms of orange juice and candy corn rain, jelly bean lightning, and tornadoes made of jawbreakers. At night two chrome moons would make their appearance.

Growing all over this world was a special plant called the Candy Leaf Plant that had candy cane and candy straw stems and cotton candy leaves. They would grow to be either 3 inches or 10 yards tall.

There were snapping turtles, rattle snakes, frogs, toads, zebras, gorillas, tiny fluffy kind cats, dogs, hawks with soft, big eyes, tarantulas, panthers, cheetahs, tigers, owls, and cows. They might sound familiar but these animals were ALL blue and they could talk! They spoke French and English. The giant ocean was made of lots of different liquids that never quite mixed together. There was a hot sauce middle, lemon lime soda near the shores, cola in the depths, and random ghost pepper pockets throughout. There was lettuce and noodle seaweed for the goldfish cracker fish and electric sharks and seals to swim through. The Statue of Liberty had been re-purposed as a light house to signal to passing ships. To get around this vast world there were flying gold and diamond limos that had everything a house would- a full kitchen, bathrooms, beds, etc. These limos had U-shaped seats, small swimming pool libraries, and billions of dollars hidden in a safe. When the limos were flying the safe could be opened to shoot out cash. Poloman called this wild world home. He had long black hair with red and blue stripes, wore Jordans, had a tank top with a bullet-proof vest, Nike sweatpants, and a Gucci belt. He lived in a secluded mansion in the desert that turned invisible every time he left. He had the ability to shoot gum that made it so people couldn't move. He wanted a safe world and was willing to protect it. Cyborg Jones, Cy for short, was not a fan of Poloman. He wore a body suit with NY on the chest. He was tall and skinny and wore suits, a hat, a mask, sunglasses, and Jordans (that was something they agreed on). He had a mustache and beard and had 3 different homes in the big city, one in the sewer and one in a cave. He was half cyborg, could fly, do back-flips, run fast, and camouflage himself. He could shoot different elements from his hands. He didn't want Poloman to have money or access to the Secret Formula.

Thankfully Poloman had some friends, Chili Frito and Liberty Lady. Chili had braids and he felt most comfortable in his red suit and Gucci flip flops. Liberty Lady had long hair and she wore a baby blue body suit. Chili lived in hot sauce part of the ocean and Liberty lived in the lighthouse. Both of them could breathe underwater, were indestructible, could turn invisible, and could clone themselves. Chili was super fast and he could shoot ice. Liberty could fly and shoot lasers from her eyes. They were Poloman's bodyguards.

Black Ninja was Cy's sidekick. He wore a dark suit with a white hood and mask. He wore black Jordans, was 12 feet tall, and lived on the dark side of the world where no candy plants could grow. He lived with a group of small robots. He was super fast and strong and had long arms and a robotic voice. He was hired help and stood by Cy's side because he was getting paid.

One day Poloman, Chili Frito, and Liberty Lady had climbed a mountain to hang out and have lunch. Little did they know, Cyborg Jones and Black Ninja were patrolling that very same mountain, hoping to run into Poloman and take his money.

As they were finishing lunch, Cy and Black Ninja came around the corner...

Handwriting practice lines on the left page, consisting of 14 horizontal dashed lines.

Handwriting practice lines on the right page, consisting of 8 horizontal dashed lines.