

THE

DARK WORLD

ADVENTURE

An original of
Ms. Rowlson's 5th grade class
at El Sol Elementary
in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2019

Published May 2nd, 2019

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leader: Jason Conde
Typist & Illustrator: Victoria Marcetti
Support: Luanne Cali, Angela Cierpial, Jennifer Jang, Steve Zerber, Mallory Humphrey

This publication was supported by

The Dark World Adventure

There was once a damp, cold world that was always dark even though it had three suns - one black, one grey, one purple (all of which would occasionally turn blue due to climate change). Flying monkeys and giant man-eating birds could be seen among the crying chocolate and cotton candy clouds, jelly bean thunder, and orange snow. There was a rainbow moon who shined rainbows down onto the hilly and curvy land covered in brown grass and white trees. Across this vast world there was a nacho jungle, a frozen desert, a candy stick forest, a furrie shrine, and ice cream tunnels. An old brick house filled with molten lava stood next to a swamp filled with thick red liquid that smelled like medicine juice. On the other side of the house was a black lagoon you couldn't see through. The park nearby had swings but they were always occupied by strange singing dolls. This world supported a vast array of dangerous plants including ogre weeds, man-eating dandelions, couch plants that would walk up and politely eat people, bushes that caused arms to sneeze off, and person-looking plants who unscrewed their "heads" to drink the red medicine liquid from the swamp. The animals who lived among them were equally fantastic: blue horses with dorito-shaped hooves, glow-in-the-dark orange cat/fish (cat bodies with fish heads), radio active birds, opposite mermaids (human bodies with fish heads), guinea pigs that changed color and ate birds, and giant spiders with snake bodies. In the nacho jungle you could find horses with gorilla bodies and in the candy forest were people with wings.

There were occasional elven-made orange juice rainstorms, if you were caught in it you would sleep for 10 hours. To get around this wild world many folks rode flying rainbow pigs who had gold hooves and sequined wings or flying unicorns with rainbow hair and gold horns. When their horns shined traffic would clear. There were also special rainbow sprinkle-fueled obsidian beds that allowed you to travel with your whole house. This was especially useful for going on vacation. Raiden called this world home. He had short black curly hair, tan skin, one green eye and one blue, and wore white clout goggles with black lenses. He wore checkered Vans and his black titanium suit had a special button on the arm that activated camouflage, He lived underground in his hi-tech secret lair with wolves and cheetahs who wore matching suits. He was super strong and dope and liked to save people. Georgie Bob John Wick lived in the swamp by the old brick house. He was short, had a black mustache and long orange beard, two big yellow teeth, and had only half of his right eyebrow. He wore orange makeup, a tall red pointy hat, an American soccer jersey, and black square shoes, and was almost always holding a red balloon. He became a mind-reader after being struck by lightning when he was 542 years young. Raiden was there when it happened and since then they had a bond.

Bob the Time Traveling Unicorn lived inside the old brick house. He was purple and dark black, had a vibranium horn, tungsten feathered wings, and rainbow eyes. He could fly and time travel, knew all the elements in the periodic table, had a Bachelors degree in Science, and made a shield for the disintegrating gun. He held a grudge against Raiden for getting better grades than him in school.

Bob had several house mates. Gerbert was an avocado ogre with many layers (like an onion) who had one giant chancla hand. It liked the idea of being vegan but it would gently chew on children who partied in his belly. He would then spit them out as red medicine into the swamp. John Merp identified as LGBTQ+ and looked like a ball of licorice. Ferbert was furry and orange and carried a sign that said, "I'm vegan" and always had hot pockets on hand. They were all married to each other and lived in the old red brick house. Gerbert was motivated by hunger, Ferbert wanted the red medicine liquid for anti-depressant purposes. John Merp's motivations were unknown. One day Bob the Time Traveling Unicorn, Gerbert, John Merp, and Ferbert were outside the old brick house working on their yard. Little did they know, Raiden and Georgie Bob John Wick were out for a walk. When they started to approach the old brick house Bob spotted them and let out a blood curdling scream...

KEEP OUT OF SWAMP

CAUTION!
BLACK LAGOON
AHEAD

Handwriting practice lines on the left page, consisting of 15 horizontal dashed lines.

Handwriting practice lines on the right page, consisting of 8 horizontal dashed lines.