

LA TIERRA DE LOS

LOBOS

Y LA

DULZURA

An original of Ms. Vahue's 3rd grade class at El Sol Elementary in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2019

Published June 5th, 2019

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leader: Jason Conde
Typist & Illustrator: Victoria Marcetti
Support: Kate Borgardt, Alyssa Stewart, Kai Harris, Nicki Poer

La Tierra de las Lobas y la Dulzura

There was once a magical world that was hot and cold at the same time and had no gravity. The low gravity made it possible to build floating cities in the clouds and one of them was called the Basement of Heaven.

The world was surrounded by so many suns! There were 50 million small suns that provided light and 5 big suns that provided heat. One super sun was so big you could see it at night. There were 3 moons, one of which was baby blue and made of cheese. The sky was tie dye turquoise-green and rainbow, looked kind of like the ocean, and was dotted with pink and blue clouds that changed color. There were lots of rainbows and kitties who loved to ride them. You could also see elephants, pegasus, and winged pigs and turtles flying around. The winds were seasonally sweet and spicy. There were beautiful beaches of golden sand with waterfalls of chocolate syrup but there was one special sparkling diamond waterfall. The beaches were surrounded by hills, mountains, and sand dunes.

The ocean was thick and had many different layers of ice cream: cotton candy, cookie dough, mint chip (don't go there), and strawberry. You could breathe and swim in most of these layers but NOT in the purple mint chip layer, there you would sink. There was cotton candy seaweed and cookie sand and the top layer of the ocean was made of melted gummy bears.

There was a rain forest near the beach called La Selva Tropical. There were seashells that sounded like the ocean (but it was really the blood flowing in your ears) and tiny seashells that helped with hearing. There were sweet and spicy candy trees that were 10 times bigger than a piano that grew hot chip leaves in the winter and cotton candy in the summer. The seeds for these trees were rock candy diamonds- the blue and pink were edible but the rest were not. Even bigger were the skittle trees that grew 10 times larger than that! To harvest the skittles one could use melted red licorice trampoline plants.

There were several huge and hungry animals living in the La Selva Tropical rain forest. There was a wolf called Lobo who was as big as a couch and ate meat. There were special tigers called Comelones that ate everything- especially wild boar- and were the size of a piano. There were saber-tooth tigers that grew to be as big as apartment buildings. There was also a bat dragon called Señor Rapido who was the size of a vampire bat and lived in the palms of arrow trees.

There were lots of ways to get around this wild world. You could ride dragons that flew 50mph, jump in portals (there were pogo sticks for jumping into the high portals), there were doors that transport you anywhere with the right numbers, giant frogs that leapt from city to city, a wagon pulled by bears, you could hop a dragonfly shaped airplane pulled by dragons, or you could get a phone that would take you anywhere you text it to. It was also possible to ride clouds or one of the suns, but only famous people could do that.

This world was home to Mr. Devil Donut Wolf. He had a giant donut body and a wolf face and legs. His sharp teeth were always bloody and he had fire coming out of his eyes. The color of his eyes and the fire coming from them changed according to his feelings. He had a gummy bear house by a waterfall in the cotton candy forest. He could breathe fire and shape-shift into other animals, but his teeth were always the same and there was always something donut-y about him. He lived in the forest because his touch could cause a building to explode. He liked having his ears touched but disliked having his tail touched- either one would distract him. He was having a tough time because his best friend recently left him for seemingly no reason. Little did he know, his friend left because he looked so donut-y and delicious and he couldn't control his urges to eat him.

The 3 Alohas were around to support him during this time. They looked like gingerbread people and had non-melting chocolate clothes and strawberry syrup blood. One was bald, one had hot chip hair, and one had luscious red licorice hair. They all wore glasses that let them see through anything AND read minds. They lived in a bamboo hut on the beach by the ocean and rode saber-tooth unicorns with shark fin wings. They could shoot chocolate from their eyeballs and cotton candy from their wrists. Out of the kindness of their hearts they would sell poison pineapple juice to make money for Mr. Devil Donut Wolf but they were secretly looking for a new evil leader.

Sacade the Fire Wolf also lived here.

They could shift between being a person and being a wolf when they were mad.

Their person form was a girl who wore grey and blue and their wolf form was a boy who wore red and black. They lived in the rain forest but spent a lot of time on the sun transporting people. They could turn anything into fire and used this power to protect other animals.

They were getting concerned that Mr. Devil Donut Wolf was going to hurt them...or the whole world!

Also living in the forest were twins named Gumball and Eel Tail Cake Jr. who wanted to help Sacade in exchange for free sweets and mechanical fish toys. They were deep-sea diving blue bear cubs who had eel tails to help them swim. Gumball had gumball eyes that were tracking devices to help Sacade find them. Sometimes Eel Tail would get hungry and eat her eyeballs and then he would have to swim to the gumball reef for replacements. They liked to be silly while swimming, hunting, and breathing underwater. Some days they had trouble hunting for fish and ended up falling into the dreaded mint chip layer.

One day Mr. Devil Donut was taking a walk on the beach, wondering why his friend had left, and feeling upset. The 3 Alohas were following and offering him cotton candy and chocolate to calm him. Little did they know, they were walking toward Sacade, Gumball, and Eel Tail Cake Jr. who were ready to confront Mr. Devil Donut.

Sacade shouted, "We need to talk!"...

