

the Secrets
OF THE DUAL MOUNTAINS

An original of Ms. Rowlson's 5th Grade class at El Sol Elementary
in conjunction with Read And Write Kalamazoo

A Division of Geological & Musicological Survey Co. Publications
Copyright 2020

Published February 12th, 2020

For more information about Read And Write Kalamazoo's literacy focused programs, please visit www.readandwritekzoo.org

Today's Story Helpers Are:
Leader: Jason Conde and Beth Keith
Typist & Illustrator: Victoria Marcetti
Support: Dan Riehl and Nicki Poer

This publication was supported by

JAMES  SPRINGGATE, PLC

The Secrets of the Dual Mountains

There was once a unique and interesting world unlike any you've seen. There were two great mountains- one made of glass and filled with diamonds and one great baked potato volcano filled with molten butter lava. The glass mountain was surrounded by pine trees and the baked potato volcano was surrounded by shredded carrot grass and french fry trees that grew fried chicken the size of coconuts.

The sky changed color based on the weather and was home to three suns- named Bob, Ronald, and Gucci- and seven moons (including the luxe LV moon) along with taco clouds and blue clouds that rained either cranberry or orange juice into the soda lakes. The air smelled like jolly ranchers and on special days it rained giant takis. Floating/growing around the world were golden roses with taki thorns that people gathered for their resources. When you cut open the flowers they released a blood that healed poison oak and ivy, when you squished the stems they released a lovely sweet liquid that tasted like a Dr. Pepper and peanut butter float. People loved it so much they bottled it.

Living around the potato volcano were pancake-headed chickens made of waffles who laid chickens of all kinds. They wore egg-printed do-rags, had LARGE robotic wings, and wore air pods to listen to their boomboxes. They ate colored pencils made of happiness and butter from the volcano.

Aside from the soda lakes there was a milk chocolate ocean warmed by the spice of the taki rain. It was home to strawberry fish, marshmallow sharks, and white chocolate coral. There was sour patch sand that would warm with the ocean.

To get around there were special people-spheres steered by simply pointing to where you want to go. They could transform into whatever the driver wanted and were powered by soap so bubbles came out of the exhaust. There were also super fast shoes and if you drank the juice that rained down you could teleport!

Señor Gucci Hiroh, or Hiroh to close friends, lived in a clear house in the glass mountain. He (or they) was very thin, had silver skin, glass eyeballs, and gold shoes that let them jump seven leagues in any direction. They were born out of one of the golden roses and were not afraid to be themselves, even when they broke societal norms like by being asexual and aromantic, or not needing to eat EVER. They had a 10,000 square foot TV and watching it made them super powerful but if they watched too much their brain would melt. They were motivated by the possibility of more great shows to watch that would make people happy. They used to be partners with Diddy Do, but they had a bad breakup.

Diddy Do Calamin/Alex Casty was a gender fluid being who was a boy most of the time but became a girl when it was raining. He wore expensive clothes and had two eyes in the front and two in the back. He lived in a people-sphere penthouse with 500 cats. When it rained she grew to 11 feet tall and her hair grew long to cover her back eyes. She lived in a mansion with 3 dogs and was super strong. She had laser eyes and stretchy candy braces to fix her overbite. She also had a horn that was radar for danger. They both could do dances to hypnotize people and walked everywhere on their toes. They bullied Hiroh because they grew up together and Diddy Do was spoiled. Mcztala also called this world home. Mcztala had no gender and asked that people use “bloogie” as a pronoun. Mcztala could change into anything but was usually covered in fur and could change to scales for protection. Mcztala also had a home in the glass mountain which was helpful because bloogie was Hiroh’s secret grandpa. Bloogie had a secret lair under the chocolate ocean to retire to when in need of a rest, but always had walkie-talkie-takis to stay in touch.

The Side Dishes were a large group of mustachioed sweet potatoes who roamed the world. They all wore pink business clothes and had glasses that were recording devices and each of their mustaches were different tools. Diddy Do/Alex had given them the potato volcano where they lived and the butter gave them invincibility. They could mash together to make one giant potato. One rainy day Hiroh was relaxing in their home in the glass mountain and Mcztala had just come over to spend some quality family time together. Just as they were sitting down to a fresh bottle of golden rose juice, they looked through the window to see Alex Casty and a whole group of Side Dishes waiting to confront them...

Handwriting practice lines on the left page, consisting of 14 horizontal dashed lines.

Handwriting practice lines on the right page, consisting of 8 horizontal dashed lines.